Governor Releases COVID-19 Risk Assessment Dashboard

The Governor’s Office has released an online dashboard that allows users to review the key metrics reviewed when determining whether or not a county is ready to advance to the next phase of reopening under the “Safe Start” concept.

The virtual dashboard lets you view, at a county by county level, the key metrics identified to determine risk level and response capacity, including testing availability, healthcare system readiness, and more.

The data is updated regularly, although improvements are still in progress, and data on the dashboard may not represent the complete dataset being used by state and local officials.

Face Mask Directive Issued

Public Health Officer Dr. Tom Locke has directed Jefferson County residents to follow a masking protocol for individuals and businesses. Individuals must wear face coverings at indoor public settings or outdoor public locations and cannot maintain a six-foot distance from others who do not share their household. Children under two are exempt from the order.

Dr. Locke and Public Health will be releasing an additional Frequently Asked Questions document to provide additional clarity shortly.

This is different from Governor Inslee's most recent masking order, which requires all employer provide employees face masks, which must be worn at all times while interfacing with other employees and/or customers. This goes into effect June 8th.
